

Heritage Fair

The background of the poster is a photograph of a street scene. Several large American flags are hanging from a building on the left side of the street. The flags are red, white, and blue. The building has a classic architectural style with windows and a balcony. The street is paved and there are some trees and parked cars visible in the distance.

At the Georgetown Library
Saturday mornings
10—noon
May 31st, June 14th and
July 12th

Explore booths and learn how to:

- research your family history
- create an oral history interview
- preserve your family heirlooms
- scan fragile photos and documents.

Local museums will show you their preservation projects and give you the inside scoop about less-traveled local historic sites.

Keynote speaker Valinda Littlefield has the latest about preservation around the state.